

GOLFERS TRIUMPH OVER "JUPE"

Andover Sportsmen Fight Winning Battle Against the Elements and Hold Successful Tournament at M. V. C. C. on Tuesday.

Despite weather conditions such as have even caused the postponement of championships, over fifty golfers braved Andover's torn up Main street, the Shaw-shen Village traffic officer, and Methuen's speed limit law and put in an appearance at the Merrimack Valley Country Club on Tuesday for Andover's second annual golf tournament. Throughout the morning and early afternoon the day was a "Scotch misty" one as Messrs. Rogers Peet, of New York and elsewhere would probably say, but about the middle of the afternoon hard rain set in which soaked things thoroughly. Despite such handicaps, all starters finished, and when the final sawing of wins between the players of the two teams was over, it was found that J. F. O'Connell's trusty henchmen had slushed through for a win of a single point over the feudal vassals of H. B. Lewis.

As was the case last year, James A. Eaton and J. F. O'Connell took the first and second gross scores, and as was the case last year, they were separated by one point with a 90 and a 91 respectively. J. Duke Smith was winner of the best net with a 92-4-88, but was closely followed for the second net by Fred H. Eaton with 104-14-90. Considering the condition of the course the winning scores were results of a very high grade of golf. This year additional gross prizes were offered for all men in the tournament who were handicapped over 14, and Burton S. Flagg was winner of his class with a low of 115. The second best gross resulted in a tie between J. C. Angus and N. C. Hamblin, the former winning the prize in the playoff. Their scores were 117.

The big prize of the day, that to be awarded to Andover's champion golfer, and to be contested for in match play by the four lowest gross scorers, has not yet found its resting place. James A. Eaton, J. F. O'Connell, James Seiden and J. Duke Smith will meet for elimination for the finals, probably tomorrow and the final match will be played as soon as possible. Promptly at 6.30, the golfers, refreshed

Boys and Girls Participate in Program of Races Run Off on Holiday. Dancing in the Evening.

The field day, baby show and bazaar arranged for Columbus Day by Andover Council 1078, K. of C., proved a great attraction to the members of St. Augustine's parish, particularly to the children.

Park street below Bartlett street, being closed to traffic, afforded a convenient place for the races, in close proximity to the Knights of Columbus club rooms where the baby show and sale were held.

The babies assembled about three o'clock and according to the judges all the best babies were girls. Annie White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Stewart White, was pronounced the best baby and awarded a dress as first prize. Two second prizes were awarded, one to Josephine Connolly daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Connolly of Cuba street, and the other to Margaret Connolly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Connolly of Shawheen. Their prizes were huge dolls quite as big as the babies themselves.

The judges were Mrs. Frank Davis, James Welch, Charles Hurley.

The cake table was in charge of Frank McDonald and the candy table in charge of Mrs. Anna Eldred.

Dancing was enjoyed to the music of Dwyer's orchestra during both afternoon and evening.

The races run off over a 75-yard course, with John J. Kelly as starter resulted as follows:

Boys: Under 12—John Robertson, first prize, necktie; Aubrey Polgreen, second prize, one-half pound candy.

K. OF C. FIELD DAY

Final papers have been passed transferring the John H. Flint property at the junction of High and Elm streets to St. Matthew's lodge, A. F. and A. M., of Andover, to be used as a new home for the Masonic lodge. The papers were passed Monday afternoon and were recorded at the registry of deeds Tuesday. The conveyance of the property was made by Frank G. and Gertrude L. Grier of Malden and Joseph and Nellie Rand of Andover to the following building trustees of St. Matthew's lodge: Albert W. Lowe, Walter H. Thompson, Henry A. Bodwell, and William Odlin.

The transaction was according to the expressed wish of the late Mrs. John H. Flint that the estate might pass into the hands of the Masons. It was secured at a nominal sum. Mr. Flint was a past master of St. Matthew's lodge at the time of his death.

Two options were secured on the property by the lodge, a second being taken after the first had expired. No amount was stated in the announcement of the sale, but it is known that the price set was made with a view to induce the members of St. Matthew's lodge to make the purchase.

No definite steps have yet been taken by St. Matthew's lodge for the development of the property. Several plans have been discussed, one of which is to remodel the building for a Masonic club with the ultimate goal a Masonic Temple.

The location is the most ideal in the town of Andover for a building of this kind. The building committee includes: Walter H. Thompson, chairman; Hon. John N. Cole, William Odlin, George A. Higgins, Gordon R. Cannon and Albert W. Lowe, master of St. Matthew's Lodge and chairman ex-officio.

At a recent meeting of the lodge a board of trustees to handle the funds toward the purchase of the property was elected as follows: Albert W. Lowe; Walter S. Thompson, John N. Cole, William Odlin and Henry A. Bodwell.

COLONIAL THEATRE, LAWRENCE

Andover theatre goes have taken Ye Colonial Players to their hearts, and in glancing about the auditorium at most any performance at the Colonial in Lawrence so many familiar Andover faces are seen that one feels quite at home. And the Players surely deserve patronage and encouragement, for they are giving splendid entertainments. Next week a novelty is to be introduced — the bringing of a famous artist as a visiting guest, to take part in the performance. The production, done in Mr. Steele's best style, is to be Julian Eltinge's melodious musical comedy, "The Fascinating Widow," and the visiting artist, who will appear in the title role, is Tommie Martelle, called Julian Eltinge's only rival and successor, and of whom it is said "The prettiest girl on the stage is a boy." His gowns are said to be wonderful. Mr. Martelle has played the part of the dashing widow over a thousand times on tour and with various stock companies, with the record of invariably turning people away, so great is the furore created by the cleverness of his impersonation. All the favorite players will be prominent in the cast, and a singing beauty chorus will be brought direct from New York for the week.

The well-remembered singing numbers include "Don't Go Near the Water, Daughter," "Everybody Loves a College Girl," "Take a Dip in the Ocean," and "I'm Going to Be a Blushing Bride," the scenic settings will be perfect, as usual, and there are incidental dances and laughs and smiles enough to make it a most enjoyable performance. Candid advice to those who do not yet hold season tickets is to make up their parties, select the evening or matinee, and phone at once to have seats held, for "The Fascinating Widow" is going to play to capacity audiences.

SHUBERT

Julia Sanderson in Carle Carleton's musical comedy success "Tangerine," will begin the last week of her limited eight weeks engagement at the Shubert theatre, Boston, on Monday October 16th.

The company will then return to New York City for a second engagement there, following which it will begin a limited engagement of eight weeks in Philadelphia. Beginning their engagement auspiciously by breaking the house record at the Shubert, Julia Sanderson and her supporting company have won many new Boston admirers in Mr. Carleton's clever musical satire on love and matrimony.

The music of "Tangerine" had long preceded it to Boston and will be popular long after it has left, but Boston will undoubtedly miss the charm and sweetness of Julia Sanderson, the pleasing personality and voice of Frank Crumit, and the hilarious raillery of Frank Lator in his greatest comedy role, as it will also miss the amusing satire and colorful effects of this successor to "Trene."

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE

"Spice of 1922," the big musical revue which scored such a record-breaking summer success at the New York Winter Garden, will open at the Boston Opera House, Oct. 16th for a limited engagement of three weeks. This dazzling spectacle of mirth and melody is sponsored by Arman Kaliz, and is in two acts and thirty-two scenes. "Spice" was written by Jack Lait, and staged by Allan K. Foster. It is announced as the "biggest show of the season at back-to-normal prices." Although it drew $5 at the Winter Garden, the top price on tour will only be $2.

Valeska Suratt heads the all star cast, with Georgia Price also featured. Other principals include Sam Hearn, Bobbo and Nelson, Nitra Vernille, Jack Trainor, Helen O'Shea, Florence Browne, Gattison Jones, Evelyn Gerald, Sue Wilson, Wilbert Dunn, Beatrice Squire, Artie Leeming, Bernice Page, Sybil Stuart, Marion George, Vaughn Hyde, Ruth Mansfield, and Arman Kaliz. The most alluring feature of "Spice of 1922" is the famous Garden of Eden chorus of fifty beautiful girls, many of whom were recruited from the ranks of Greenwich Village artist models. Every type of beauty is represented, with the vogue running to bobbed-haired blondes and Titians. The girls present a startling novelty in the Japanese temple scene, clad in costumes of imported Oriental paint. In a blue and white Holland scene they offer a picturesque wooden shoe dance.

All the settings were supervised by Herbert Ward, of the Law studios, who is best known as art director for George White's "Scandals" and some of the scenes in the current "Ziegfeld Follies." Some of Mr. Ward's most artistic stage pictures in "Spice of 1922" are the Japanese temple, the Garden of Eden, a little side street in Paris, an Arizona landscape, a New England wheat field, a French boudoir, the "Red Lantern," the Park Avenue carnival, and a massive white and scarlet staircase scene in which the "Old Fashioned Cake Walk" number is staged.

PLYMOUTH

At the Plymouth theatre, Boston, A. H. Woods is presenting, for a limited engagement, one of his most important successes, "Lawful Larceny" by Samuel Shipman, co-author of "East is West," "Friendly Enemies" and other well-known plays. From the first week in January of this year until the middle of the past July, "Lawful Larceny" found continuous favor in its performances at the Republic theatre, New York, and it is now seen here with Lowell Sherman, whose portrayal of the role of Guy Tarlow was considered one of the finest individual performance of the Broadway season, Belle Bennett and Edna Goodrich in the featured parts. Others of the cast include Byron Beasley, Fleming Ward, Ida Darling, David Landau and Margaret Bird. Mr. Woods has furnished attractive settings for the three acts and prologue of the play.

"Lawful Larceny" is at once striking and original. The paradoxical title refers to the theft of a husband's love and his worldly fortune, by an unscrupulous adventuress and the regaining of that love and the lost fortune by his wife through methods at once novel and dramatic. The wife appoints herself her own avenger and by an adroit maneuver, ingratiates herself into the home and favor of her enemy to whom she is unknown, and when ready springs a trap which effectively confounds and vanquishes the vampire. Mr. Shipman has handled his theme both satirically and melodramatically so that the force of his idea is projected through intense drama and deft characterization.

There is a popular matinee on Thursday as well as a Saturday afternoon performance. This attraction will not be seen elsewhere in New England.

MAJESTIC

A company of players that would do credit to many of the great Broadway revues playing at three dollar prices is to be seen in "The Spice of Life," the swift moving and highly comic melodrama with music which comes to the Majestic theatre, Boston, for the week of Oct. 16th.

Inimitable Sylvia Clark, dubbed by a great newspaper critic as "the little eccentric clown of vaudeville" shares with Dave Kramer and Jack Boyle the featured position in this whirlwind revel of dancing, comedy and song. Her comic characterizations approach the classic in their execution. No haphazard work, hers, but a carefully thought-out and studied performance. Miss Clark was featured in both "The Kiss Waltz" — a "hit" production, and "Hitchy Koo," that droll annual attraction named for the irrepressible Raymond Hitchcock.

Kramer and Boyle, are the pair who abolished the limits of laughter. Kramer's studies in burnt cork comedy as worked out by Boyle and himself are said to be the ultimate in that type of fun-making. Julia Keely, last year the singing lead in the Broadway success, "Two Little Girls in Blue" is a soprano with a voice of exceptional range and timbre. A comedienne, too, is Miss Keely, who knows the value of a smile and a beautiful pair of shoulders.

The Hickie Brothers, who figure prom-

EDWIN VARNEY of Ye Colonial Players

Mr. Varney looks like a theological student but looks are often misleading, for he is an actor, and an actor of funny parts at that. He is a popular member of the Colonial Stock Company in Lawrence — popularity gained by fine character impersonations and the creation of the kind of hearty laughs that save doctor's bills. There is always a welcoming round of applause when he makes his first appearance in a play.

inently in all the more hilarious episodes is "Spice" are late stars of that exotic spectacle, "Greenwich Village Follies." Famed for their droll dialog, their daring tumbles, and their swift dancing, these Hickeys are worth twenty minutes in any man's show. Frank Gaby, the adroit young man who can throw his voice into unexpected and unusual places is one of the foremost ventriloquists. A true comic is Gaby, with a flair for the odd and bizarre that serves to set his specialty apart from acts of the same general type. Other conspicuous personalities in "Spice" are Rita Bell, Irene Delroy, the Wainwright Sisters, Raymond Green, a fine young tenor, and Dan Walker, who travesties the mannerisms of some of our great stage stars.

Surrounding this array of players are the twelve London Tivoli girls, young women brought direct from London to appear in this revue. Their dancing is said to be a revelation to those accustomed to the slipshod stepping of the American chorus girl.

Monday night refreshments were served by Misses Ina Petrie, Jean Donald, Esie Livingston and Dorothy Wanamaker.

Goodwin Reports on Wood Accident

No serious fault on the part of Charles J. McCarthy, operator of the car which was hit by that of William M. Wood Jr. just before the latter struck a telegraph pole, is found by State Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin who on Tuesday made public his findings in regard to the accident which resulted in the death of young Wood and also of Alexander Gardner of England.

McCarthy's license is restored to him by the findings of the State Registrar, while serious fault is found on the part of Arthur H. Earle of Lexington, now serving a three months' term in the Middlesex House of Correction. Earle's license and registration certificate, suspended immediately after the fatal accident on August 15, have now been revoked. The license of Edgar D. Brackett, operator of a car which struck the Wood car, has been returned to him.

Expressing his conclusion that Wood and Earle were racing at the time of the accident, Mr. Goodwin said:

"So far as the investigation is concerned there is no question in my mind but that Wood and Earle were racing and had been for a number of miles before they reached the spot where the accident happened."

William M. Wood, president of the American Woolen Company and father of the young man killed in the accident declared that he was utterly unable to reconcile Mr. Goodwin's statement with the facts, insisting that the overwhelming weight of evidence is to the effect that there was no race.

Autumn Leaf Supper and Sale

The A. P. C. sorority of the South church again showed its efficiency in serving a popular supper last Friday evening when 290 members of the parish and their friends sat down to an abundant meal although only 200 guests had been expected.

The tables were decorated with autumn leaves and the menu consisted of cold meat, scalloped potatoes, beet salad, tomato salad, rolls, coffee, ice cream and cake.

Mrs. Philip Hardy had charge of the serving, assisted by the following members of the I. B. G. sorority: Nettie Pritchard, Betty Harrington, Ruth Pritchard, Helen Yungelbauer, Dorothy Newman, Helen Pitman and Irene Cole.

The chairman of the committee which arranged the supper were Miss Maria Fairweather and Miss Jennie Gadapee. Other members of the A. P. C. who were also active workers for the success of the supper were Mrs. Frank T. Carlton, Mrs. Paul Ward, Mrs. Homer Staples, Mrs. Arthur Lewis, Mrs. Mary Z. Bassett, Mrs. Roy Hardy, Mrs. Philip Hardy, Mrs. William P. Foster, Mrs. Louise Groat, Mrs. John A. Burr, Misses Esther Colby, Phyllis Cunningham, Lucy Cheever, Florence Gilman, Helen Robertson, Mary Robertson and Edith Kendall.

During the afternoon a sale was held under the auspices of The King's Daughters. The small vestry where the booths were arranged was prettily decorated with clematis and the red berries of the black alder. In the center of the room was a display of knitted articles and comfort bags made for the Seaman's Friend Society. Proceeds from the Christmas table as well as the receipts from the sale of autumn leaf tags will be used for more material for this work.

A varied assortment of fancy articles, children's apparel, domestic articles, home-cooked food, and candy met with a ready sale. Colonial nosegays were a feature of the flower table.

During the evening, Miss Edna Lawrence played several violin selections.

Those in charge of the various tables were: Christmas—Miss Ethel Hitchcock, Mrs. T. F. Pratt, Mrs. C. J. Francis.

Children's—Mrs. P. J. Look, Miss C. Madeleine Hewes, Miss Sarah Poor, Mrs. Henry Wadman.

Petition to President Harding from the South Church

The following petition was read at the morning service at the South church on Sunday by the Rev. E. Victor Bigelow and it was unanimously voted that it be sent to President Harding.

The South Church of Andover, having made earnest petition to the Ruler of this universe for His hand to restrain the cruelties of the Turkish Army in driving Christian people out of that realm, now turns to you, the chief executive of the American People, to petition you for some open expression by this government of the deep revulsion of our people against these gigantic horrors.

We humbly beseech you to make public protest to the Ankara Government and Mustafa Kemal, within the limits of international courtesy, that any Christians in their land are co-religionists with almost our entire population and that such enormous violations of human rights cannot be regarded by us as friendly deportment towards this nation.

It seems to us that such representations on the part of our government are well within the bounds of international friendship, and that their utterance, even if unproductive, is our humane duty.

If more extreme overtures should be regarded by you as fitting, we beg you to accept the pledge of loyalty from this church which has sent many of its sons into France and upon high seas to protect the endangered citizens of other nations and which owns as its Inspirer, Him who gave Himself to save an alien people.

By vote of the Church
E. VICTOR BIGELOW, Minister
CHARLES U. BELL, Deacon.

Natural History Society Outing

Members of the Andover Natural History society, with guests from the Lawrence society, making a party of thirty-three, enjoyed a hike last Friday afternoon with the home of Mrs. H. S. Jenkins on Ballardvale road as their objective.

During the afternoon Mrs. Jenkins read a history of the old Stephen D. Abbott place, which is now her home, the grant of land for which was given by the Kings of France and England in the days of the French and Indian wars. It was originally owned by an Abbott, the name being that of some of the first settlers of Andover, and consisted of about 300 acres. At the time when the Acadians were driven out of Canada, a number of them settled near this farm, and as people were very superstitious in those days, they were not welcomed as they were Catholics, and were driven back into the woods. They were finally befriended, however, and lived peaceably with the English speaking people of that day.

The old house has been delightfully restored and Mrs. Jenkins has a collection of antiques which greatly interested her visitors. Basket lunches were served augmented with coffee and apples furnished by Mrs. Jenkins.

Among those present from Andover were: Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Chase, Miss Florence Parker, Mrs. A. W. Lowe, Mrs. Frank M. Foster, Kenneth Foster, William Harnden Foster, Jr., Mrs. Lucy Hight, Mrs. Fred Cheney, Mrs. A. V. Kidder, Alfred Kidder, Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Sanborn, Lucy Sanborn, Ruth Perry, Edwina T. Brewster, Fricilla Whittemore, Miss Alice Wear, Miss Naomi Acker, Charles Hudson, Miss Ethel Eaton, Miss Evelyn Jenkins, Mrs. Brown, Harvey Brown, Harry Jenkins, Mrs. H. S. Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. William Harding, and Mrs. Franz Schneider of Methuen and Mrs. Bernard Sheridan of Lawrence.

Hearing on Complaint of Isadore Gordon Against Chief Smith

Monday afternoon the selectmen gave a hearing to Isadore Gordon, a real estate dealer in Boston, on charges preferred against Chief Frank M. Smith for alleged slanderous language used by him toward Gordon when summoning the latter to appear in court for alleged violation of the automobile laws. When questioned by the selectmen, Mr. Gordon did not make any definite statement as to the abusive language he alleges the chief used. Chief Smith then addressed the hearing and stated that he always tried to be courteous and did not remember any occasion in which he used abusive or indecent language.

Selectman Donald, after consulting with the other members of the board, told the complainant that there was nothing to substantiate his charges and the case against Chief Smith was dropped, as far as they were concerned. Gordon has entered suit for slander against Chief Smith.

Andover Women Will Attend School of Politics and Government

Several members of the Andover League of Women Voters will attend the School of Politics and Government to be conducted October 18, 19 and 20 by the Massachusetts League of Women Voters at Agassiz House, 10 Garden street, Cambridge.

The general topic for the three-day session will be "Growth of Popular Control Under Law," taking up "Constitutional Backgrounds of Political Freedom," "Public Opinion and Popular Government" and "Popular Support and Public Control of General Welfare."

President LeBaron Russell Briggs of Radcliffe college will open the Wednesday morning session at 10:30 o'clock. The speakers will include Prof. Albert Bushnell Hart, Prof. Felix Frankfurter, Prof. Sayre and Dr. Roscoe Pound all of Harvard University. Mary E. Woolley, president of Mt. Holyoke college, and Maude Wood Park, president of the National League of Women Voters.

Tuition for all sessions is $2.00; admission to any single session 50 cents.

League of Women Voters Adopts Legislative Program

Favoring improvement, but no fundamental change in the present primary law, the delegates to the Fall Business Meeting of the Massachusetts League of Women Voters, held in Boston recently, went on record to oppose all efforts to do away with the direct primary system of nominations, but as willing to support any change which would not take from the voters their power to nominate candidates directly.

The meeting was largely devoted to the discussion of legislative methods and the legislative program for the coming year. The measure which will be introduced by the league and passed first, will be embodied in a petition to make women eligible to jury service. League members regard this as the logical next step in equalizing the responsibilities of women and men voters.

The delegates also endorsed the principle of various measures which are likely to come before the next legislature; these include raising the school age from 14 to 16; better health certification for school children; equal pay for equal work for school teachers; protection and improvement of minimum wage law; and equal representation of women on political committees.

The Resolution Committee, Mrs. Herbert J. Currier, Chairman, Mrs. Thomas Logan and Mrs. Samuel B. Woodward, presented a number of resolutions which in effect, when adopted, constituted a league platform. These covered the subjects already referred to, with others committing the league to increase its efforts in education, to support any and every intensive work to register all eligible women and to get out a 100 per cent women's vote on election day.

Concern for the situation in the Near East was embodied in a resolution presented by Miss Blackwell which urged the National Immigration Committee to remove temporarily the quota limit so that Armenians and Greeks rescued from Smyrna may come here in case they can be received by responsible persons.

Much enthusiasm was called for by the resolution thanking President Harding and members of Congress for the enactment of the Independent Citizenship Act, a copy of which was sent to the President, to Senator Curtis and Representative Cable, Chairman of the Congressional Committee in charge of the measure, and to Mrs. Maud Wood Park for her able leadership.

The luncheon which preceded the Business Session was a brilliant affair largely attended. The National Officers were all present and each received an ovation when she arose to speak.

Mrs. Arthur G. Rotch presided at all sessions and won much commendation for her clear exposition of the knotty subjects considered, and her fair ruling.

Dedicate Peabody House Organ

There was a large and interested audience Saturday evening in the Peabody house when the new two-manual organ was dedicated. Dr. Carl F. Platteicher, director of music at Phillips Academy gave a recital from the works of the great composers, which showed to advantage the beauties and possibilities of the new organ.

His program was as follows:

Gavotte	Handel
Song of the Boatmen on the Volga	Anon.
Offertoire in E flat	Wolfe
Humoresque	Dvorak
Hungarian Dance	Brahms
Pavanne	Brisson
Rondo	Beethoven-Kreisler
Gavotte	Martini

The organ was built and installed by Kimball Frazee of Boston and is to be used for practice by organ students, in connection with the rehearsals of the school orchestra, also with the Society of Inquiry and the Sunday school of the Academy church. The organ is a two manual instrument with electric action. The specifications are as follows:

Swell organ—Salicional, Stopped Diapason, Vox Celeste, Open Diapason, Oboe, Flute 4ft. (prepared for).

Great Organ—Dulciana, Melodia, Octave, Open Diapason, Flute 4 ft. (prepared for).

Pedal Organ—Bourdon 16 ft. Flute (8 ft.)

Marigold Tea on Wednesday

Huge yellow African marigolds, and the smaller French marigolds both double and single in velvety shades of yellow and russet filled every available space at the marigold tea held Wednesday afternoon under the auspices of the Andover League of Women Voters at the home of Miss Sarah MacKeown on Wednesday afternoon.

The hostess was Mrs. Philip Hardy. Mrs. Frank Brigham and Mrs. Frederic G. Moore poured and those who assisted in serving were Mrs. Arthur Bliss, Jr., Mrs. George and Mrs. Roy Hardy, Mrs. Herbert Fraser and Mrs. George Ingram.

A program of zither and piano music was furnished by John C. Hansen.

Flowers were contributed by Mrs. Frank H. Paige, Mrs. George Ripley, Mrs. James C. Sawyer, Mrs. Ralph Ingram, Miss Mary B. Smith and Frederic Boutwell.

The last of the series, a dahlia tea, will be held next Wednesday afternoon. The money realized will be used by the League to purchase articles for the children's table of which they are to have charge at the Rainbow fete to be held the latter part of this month.

Exhibition of Magic at Punchard Hall

Fred Eldred, magician of Springfield, delighted a large gathering in Punchard hall Wednesday evening when an entertainment was held for the benefit of the Punchard Athletic association.

Mr. Eldred gathered coins from supposedly empty pockets, melted mutilated handkerchiefs, transformed sugarcane sawdust into the best of candy and performed many other surprising feats which delighted and completely mystified the spectators.

South Church Notes

The Autumn Leaf Sale last week was abundantly patronized and the crowd at the supper provided by the A. P. C. young ladies, overflowed to a second table. The popular and able rendition by Miss Edna Lawrence gave a delightful surprise to those who had not appreciated how Miss Lawrence's voice has developed.

The Men's Club will open the doors of their first meeting to both men and women who may be interested in seeing and hearing our popular and able congressman, John Jacob Rogers, who speaks for us Friday evening, October 20th.

The Women's Home Missionary Alliance will meet in Lowell at the Eliot Union church Thursday, October 19th. It is hoped that a number of women from the Andover churches may attend.

WORK OF SOUTH CHURCH

A questionnaire by Lucy Sanborn with answers by members of the band of Junior Helpers gave an excellent idea of the work of this group of young church-workers which in the less than two years since its organization has many definite accomplishments. Not only have they assisted on several social occasions and furnished programs for missionary meetings of the Women's Union and contributed to the vestry fund, but their helpfulness has reached to the home missionary field, to Turkey, the Near East.

In the absence of Frank L. Brigham, Frederic G. Moore spoke for the men's club, which is an active social organization of 140 men of the parish. He outlined a possible plan for broader usefulness for this organization including material assistance in the church budget, funds for a new organ and parsonage, more regular church attendance, help in the Sunday school and Sunday evening forum.

A series of simple charades by the girls of the I. E. G. illustrated the ideas for which their organization stands including: mercy, kindness, peace, honor, purity and love.

The work of ministry carried on by The Courteous Circle of King's Daughters was presented by its leader Mrs. V. D. Harrington.

Mrs. William P. Foster spoke of the Y. P. S. C. E. society, Mrs. Roy Hardy for the A. P. C. sorority and Arthur Little for the X. B. K.

The musical numbers were a solo "Teach me to Pray" by Miss Edna Lawrence, "The Lord is My Salvation" by a trio composed of Miss Ford, Mr. Bassett and Mr. Bolton, a piano solo, Russian Romance by Mrs. Francis H. Foster and the singing of a hymn "The Whole Wide World for Jesus" by members of the Y. P. S. C. E.

Pythians Receive Official Visit From D. G. C. Crowell of Methuen

Garfield Lodge 172, K. of P., received an official visit Tuesday night at its regular convention in Garfield hall. Deputy Grand Chancellor Archie C. Crowell and suite of Kearsarge Lodge 124 K. of P. of Methuen were received with full honors.

Charles W. Davis C. C. of Garfield Lodge welcomed the representative of Grand Chancellor Harry R. Lawrence and the officers and members of the local lodge showed the visitors every courtesy.

Deputy Grand Chancellor Crowell brought the message of Grand Chancellor Lawrence, "Faithful Fraternal Friendship" and the manner in which it was delivered by the deputy brought to the hearts and minds of all Pythians the principles which are the foundation and bulwark of the order.

Deputy Crowell also brought a personal message to Garfield Lodge, and touched on many things of vital interest to Pythians and especially to the members of lodges in the smaller towns.

Past Chancellor Slater, who was Deputy Grand Prelate, and one of the most active Pythians in this district, also spoke. He gave a very interesting review of the growth of Kearsarge Lodge during the past few years and also dwelt on the difficulties of maintaining interest in the smaller town lodges. He urged the hearty co-operation and support of the members by the officers and lodge as the only way to make certain the spreading of the principles of true Pythianism.

Others who spoke were: C. C. Otto, R. Weiland, D. G. vice chancellor; Charles Maguire, D. G. Master of Finance, and Louis Thompson, D. G. Master of Arms. James C. Souter P. C. of Garfield Lodge urged all Pythians to give full support to the order to which they belonged. Half-hearted support of any organization is not only detrimental to that organization but also to the member who only attended once in a while. He urged every Pythian to stand behind the order and work for its best interests.

Routine business was transacted and following the official visitation refreshments were served and whist enjoyed.

The official suite from Kearsarge Lodge accompanying Deputy Grand Chancellor Crowell included:

Otto R. Weiland, C. C., D. G. Vice Chancellor.
John Slater, P. C., D. G. Prelate.
Charles Van Oot, D. G. Master of Work.
George Hunting, D. G. Keeper of Records and Seals.
Charles Maguire, D. G. Master of Finance.
John Sargent, D. G. Master of Exchequer.
Louis Thompson, D. G. Master of Arms.
Thomas Hogarth, P. C., D. G. Inner Guard.
Harry Lufkin, D. G. Outer Guard.
William Walker of Garfield Lodge was pianist.

Obituary

NELLIE ABBOTT

Funeral services for Mrs. Nellie Abbott, widow of the late Lewis P. Abbott, who died Saturday, October 10, in Somerville were held at the South church Tuesday afternoon at half past two with the Rev. E. Victor Bigelow officiating.

Mrs. Abbott never made her home in Andover, but her husband was a native of this town and a cousin of the late Charlotte Helen Abbott. He, as well as one of his brothers, was a victim of the great Boston fire, November 9, 1872. Having served through the Civil war and come through unscathed, they both perished while serving as members of the Boston fire department. The double tragedy proved too great a shock for their mother, to whom it was a death blow. Since that time there has been no burial in the lot until that of Mrs. Abbott on Tuesday, an interval of almost fifty years.

Mrs. Abbott is survived by a son, Lewis G. Abbott of Somerville, and a daughter, Mrs. Gertrude Kendrick of Everett with whom she had until recently made her home.

Junior Helpers Officers

The regular meeting of the Junior Helpers of the South church was held in the church vestry Tuesday afternoon and the following officers were elected for the coming year: President, May Elander; vice president, Polly Francis; secretary, Barbara Folk; treasurer, Marjorie West.

Miss Gertrude Saunders of the International Institute of Lawrence gave a short talk on what the girls could make for Christmas, suggesting many novel things easy to make.

What's the Answer

The Minister—"Now that we have finished our little study hour, is there any bright infant who would like to put a question?"

Tim, the Terror—"I'd like to know if you have on pants under that nightgown?"

with hot showers and dry without, gathered around the festive board. The supper would not have been complete without the efficient song leading of master of ceremonies O'Connell, who, despite repeated efforts to sing number 34, swung the throng as he wished through several other numbers and finally yielded to 34-ers to be rewarded by numerous and alas, varying, renditions of that classic.

Mr. O'Connell opened the post prandial exercises with a few remarks expressing his regrets and what he felt sure were the regrets of those present at the absence of John N. Cole, who, while he had done much to insure the success of both tournaments, had through circumstances been forced to absent himself at both times.

At the close of the evening it was voted to send regrets of the golfers assembled to Mr. Cole in Boston and to wish him a speedy and complete recovery.

The teams comprised the following players:

H. B. Lewis's team—B. H. Hayes, K. Boynton, F. H. Jones, J. W. Cross, N. J. Smith, J. C. Kimball, A. W. Hall, E. C. Ingram, R. C. Ingram, A. V. Kidder, W. B. Knowlton, A. R. French, M. F. Foxon, P. to generate a unified body for good in the town

In a lighter vein he treated the assemblage to a rendition of the "Lay of the Weary Golfer", which, in his inimitable style, went to the hearts of many of those present. At the end of the evening, after the presentation of the prizes, it was voted unanimously to make the affair come at least twice a year, once in the spring and once in the fall, the next meeting to take place sometime in June.

Mr. O'Connell then introduced Professor Charles H. He said it presented an opportunity to learn the fears and foibles of one's neighbors better than any other form of association, an opportunity to become better acquainted, to enter into a better ground of sympathy with one another's hopes and ambitions, to settle disputes and

Jascha Heifetz to Play at Lawrence Colonial

The sale of tickets for the concert at the Lawrence Colonial theatre on Sunday, October 22 by Jascha Heifetz opened this morning with a line that augured well for a sell-out day in advance of the concert itself. The subscription sale of course tickets for this concert in conjunction with the concert by Sophie Braslau which opens Music Week on November 19 and that of January 14 by Reinold Werrenath, baritone, was very heavy. Those tickets which were not sold in the course ticket plan went on sale Friday morning.

Coincident with the opening of the sale of separate tickets the program which Heifetz is to give is released for publication. It is a very attractive program and includes many of the most popular of his red seal records. Heifetz will do the unusual feat of playing two concertos. This was successfully done by Fritz Kreisler here in 1919 and is usually regarded as a most taxing attempt.

The Heifetz concert will set a new mark for fees. His contract calls for the payment of $2,500 in contrast with the fee of $1,500 which Kreisler claimed when he played here. Notwithstanding the great fee of the violin prodigy he refused as many offers to play in his 1922-23 tour as he accepted.

The Lawrence concert will open the Heifetz tour. He goes from Lawrence to Albany where he plays the following Wednesday. Thence to New York for the first of his four Carnegie Hall recitals on Saturday.

From New York he makes a quick jump to Boston where he appears at Symphony Hall on Sunday, October 29.

His Lawrence program is as follows:

1. Concerto in E minor	Nardini
a. Allegro moderato
b. Andante Cantabile
c. Allegretto giocoso
2. Concerto in A major	Mo-ri
a. Adagio—allegro aperto
b. Adagio
c. Fando: Tempo di menuetto
3. a. Romance in F major	Heifetz
b. Menuet	Beethoven
c. Waves at Play	Grazie
d. Caprice, No. 13	Paganini
e. Caprice, No. 20	Paganini
4. Serenata	Spombai
b. Polonaise in D major	Wieniawski

The finest of the African game is fast disappearing and many valuable species are threatened with extinction. Only about 30 specimens of the white rhinoceros are left and they are badly scattered in Zululand. Only 1,000 of the beautiful nyala, or native antelope, are left and the mountain zebra are reduced to but 400. The laws are far from adequate and such as exist are generally disregarded.

University professors of Princeton may retire hereafter on half-pay when they reach the age of 55 years. Professors can continue to teach, if they wish to do so, until they are 68 years of age, but after that they are to retire automatically.

Andover 7, Brown 0

Andover defeated the Brown Second team last Saturday afternoon in the opening game of the season on Brothers Field, Randall scoring the only touchdown in the third period and failing getting the maximum points on a place kick from the 15-yard line. The score was 7 to 0. It was a slippery day and the backs skidded on the gridiron and fumbles were numerous. It was a fumble which led to Andover's victory. Shoop covering the pigskin on Brown's 25-yard line after a fumble by Peters. Despite a 15-yard penalty for illegal use of hands, Failing and Randall made the necessary distance for a score. It took just two plays from the 27-yard line to make the only touchdown. Failing went around left end for 15 yards and Randall ran the rest of the way on the next play.

The condition of the field made long gains impossible and as both teams were evenly matched neither was able to show a consistent advance. Kicking was resorted to and in this Failing and Kaufman had the advantage over Stiller and Dixon of Brown. The Andover ends were fast down the field and only once was a Brown receiver able to make any distance. Andover punted at every opportunity toward the end of the game, and as a result was able to keep Brown from getting within scoring distance. Once the visitors in the last period got as far as Andover's 15-yard line, but failed to get together and lost the ball on downs after trying two forward passes.

The Brown backs punctured Andover's line at times for good gains but at critical times the Blue held. Andover has great possibilities and a fine set of backs in Kaufman, Randall and Failing. On a dry field they will be dangerous.

"Can't you understand anything?" she asked. "I've lived here all my life—on your money. I've not been strong enough to work, they say—well, but I've been strong enough to be a hired girl in your house—and I've been glad to pay for my keep. . . . Well, then I got a little something, same as other folks. I thought I was married and I went off on the train and he bought me things and I saw the different towns. And then it was all a mistake. I didn't have any of it. I came back here and went in to your kitchen again—I don't know why I came back. I suppose because I'm most thirty-four and new things ain't so easy any more—but what have I got or what'll I ever have? And now you want to put on to me having folks look at me and think he run off and left me, and having 'em all wonder. . . . I can't stand it. I can't stand it. I can't. . . ."

"You'd rather they'd know he fooled you, when he had another wife?" Dwight sneered.

"Yes! Because he wanted me. How do I know—maybe he wanted me only just because he was lonesome, the way I was. I don't care why! And I won't have folks think he went and left me."

"When a family once gets talked about for any reason—" said Lulu and shuddered.

"I'm talked about now!"

"But nothing that you could help. If he got tired of you, you couldn't help that." This mistake was Dwight's.

"No," Lulu said, "I couldn't help that. And I couldn't help his other wife, either."

"Bigamy," said Dwight, "that's a crime."

"I've done no crime," said Lulu. "Bigamy," said Dwight, "disgraces everybody it touches."

"Even I," Lulu said.

"Lulu," said Dwight, "on D's account will you promise us to let this thing rest with us three?"

"I s'pose so," said Lulu quietly.

"You will?"

"I s'pose so."

Lulu sobbed: "Thank you, thank you, Lulu. This makes up for everything."

"You'll be happy to think you've done this for us, Lulu," said Dwight.

"I s'pose so," said Lulu.

Lulu, pink from her little gust of sobbing, went to her, kissed her, her trim tan sailor suit against Lulu's blue cotton.

"My sweet, self-sacrificing sister," she murmured.

"Oh, stop that!" Lulu said.

Dwight took her hand, lying limply in his. "I can now," he said, "overlook the matter of the letter."

Lulu drew back. She put her hair behind her ears, swallowed, and cried out.

"Don't you go around pitying me! I'll have you know I'm glad the whole thing happened!"

It was not yet nine o'clock of a vivid morning. Cornish had his floor and sidewalk sprinkled, his red and blue plush piano spreads dusted. He sat at a folding table well back in the store, and opened a law book.

For half an hour he read. Then he found himself looking off the page, stabbed by a reflection which always stabbed him anew: Was he really getting anywhere with his law? And where did he really hope to get? Of late when he awoke at night this question had stood by the cot, waiting.

It was behind that curtain that this unreasoning question usually attacked him, when his giant, wavering shadow had died upon the wall and the faint smell of the extinguished lamp went with him to his bed; or when he waked before any sign of dawn. In the mornings all was cheerful and wonted—the question had not before attacked him among his red and blue plush spreads, his golden oak and ebony cases, of a sunshiny morning.

A step at his door set him flying. He wanted passionately to sell a piano. "Well!" he cried, when he saw his visitor.

It was Lulu, in her dark red suit and her tilted hat.

"You're out early," said he, participating in the village chorus of this bright challenge at this hour.

"Oh, no," said Lulu.

He looked out the window, pretending to be caught by something passing, leaned to see it the better.

"Oh, how'd you get along last night?" he asked, and wondered why he had not thought to say it before.

"All right, thank you," said Lulu.

"Was he—about the letter, you know?"

"Yes," she said, "but that didn't matter. You'll be sure," she added, "not to say anything about what was in the letter?"

"Why, not till you tell me I can," said Cornish, "but won't everybody know now?"

"No," Lulu said.

At this he had no more to say, and feeling his speculation in his eyes, dropped them to a piano scarf from which he began flicking invisible specks.

"I came to tell you good-by," Lulu said.

"Good-by!"

"Yes, I'm going off—for a while. My satchel's in the bakery—I had my breakfast in the bakery."

"Say!" Cornish cried warmly, "then everything wasn't all right last night?"

"As right as it can ever be with me," she told him. "Oh, yes. Dwight forgave me."

"Forgave you!"

She smiled, and trembled.

"Look here," said Cornish, "you come here and sit down and tell me about this."

He led her to the folding table, as the only social spot in that vast area of his, seated her in the one chair, and for himself brought up a piano stool. But after all she told him nothing. She merely took the comfort of his kindly indignation.

"It came out all right," she said only. "But I won't stay there any more. I can't do that."

"Then what are you going to do?"

"In Milton yesterday," she said, "I saw an advertisement in the hotel—they wanted a chambermaid."

Some Things We Can Do

Our desire is to see how much—not how little—we can give our customers for their money.

Don't interpret this as a burst of philanthropy. It isn't. It's plain, common-sense business, because a satisfied customer is the best possible advertisement.

Every telephone becomes a part of the universal Bell System the moment it is installed. The service that may be afforded a patron, however, is largely dependent upon his knowledge of the telephone's varied possibilities. We can suggest some of these, leaving to him the privilege of availing himself of them.

Does he know how to make an Emergency Fire or Police Call?

Does he know what we are glad to do in the way of emergency installations in cases of quarantined illness?

Does he know the economics of Station-to-Station Calls as distinguished from other toll calls?

Does he know what we will do to help forward an urgent message relative to sickness or death?

Does he know we will try to get a message to a subscriber whose full address is unknown to him?

Does he know what our Public Station service can do in reaching non-subscribers by messenger?

If, perchance, the reader does not know of these and other possibilities, I wish he would pay me a visit. I may be able to make the telephone much more valuable to him, and perhaps without one cent of additional cost.

Community Religious Services

At the Sunday evening community religious services held in Post Office hall, Rev. C. W. Henry of Christ church was the speaker and took for his text (Eccles. 5-11) "And What Good Is There To The Owner Thereof?" Miss Mary Caldwell of Andover was the soloist of the evening rendered "Teach me to Pray."

On next Sunday evening Dr. Platteicher of Phillips Academy will be the speaker and his subject will be based on church music. It is hoped that a very large number will be present to hear Dr. Platteicher and also remain after the services as he is planning to form a choir if a sufficient number are interested.

Two old settlers at smoking in a cabin far away in the backwoods. No feminine presence ever graced that settlement; and the domestic arrangements were primitive and rude. The conversation drifted from politics to cooking, and one of the confirmed bachelors said: "I got one of them there cooking books once, but I never could do sothin' with it." "Too much fancy work about it?" asked the other.

"You've hit it. Every one of them recipes run the same way, 'Take a clean dish' an' 'that settled me at once.'"

American Woolen 5—Arlington Mills 0

The Arlington Mills soccer team had the American Woolen team as visitors on Saturday and succumbed to a superior team, being defeated by five clear goals. The first half was keenly contested, the only goal in this half being a penalty to the Woolen which was netted by Wilson.

The second half found the Woolen team in a scoring mood, taking advantage of every opportunity, and Wilson adding two more goals to his account, while Low and Inch netted once. The Woolen team plays a classy soccer game but found the Arlington team plugging hard all the time. It might be said that the general run of the game did not warrant a five-goal defeat as in the second half Rennie was severely tested, with some good shots, the veteran goalie being bang on the top of his form. Once in particular he made a miraculous save from McGowan. To sum matters up, it was a fighting team against a classy field, whereby class won in the end.

VISITORS WIN SOCCER

Abbot Worsted 3 to 1 Victor Over Handicapped Shawsheen Team in Game Played Saturday on Drizzling Field.

The soccer game between Abbot Worsted and Shawsheen was one of the big events in the Shawsheen Athletic Association for the season of 3 to 1. Both teams played a good, hard game and much enthusiasm prevailed, even though the weather conditions were bad, a drizzling rain falling all during the game. The visitors played a better brand of football and deserved to win. That the Abbot Worsted is a wonderful combination must be admitted by all who saw them in action Saturday. They displayed at all times the true science of the game and how it should be played, and it will take a great team to defeat the boys from Forge Village.

Shawsheen fought gamely during the full ninety minutes, and perhaps things might have been different had they had their full eleven men during the whole of the game, for up to the time of Nichols being hurt they had quite as much of the game as the Abbots. George Haddon, the center half on the Shawsheen team, deserves great praise for his work. Playing bangup to the top of his form, he was ever in the thick of the fray, continually working and successful on many occasions in breaking up promising movements by sheer grit. The play of Kane, Quinn and Kershaw was a feature of the visitors' attack, being well assisted by a good halfback line which never allowed the Shawsheen forwards to settle down. Jack Deymond in goal had a busy day and right well did he avail himself. He has absolutely no chance whatever to keep out the goals that were netted. Jackson and Caldwell played a hard game throughout and did much to hold the opposing front rank as well as they did, for it was under continual pressure. The home team was best represented by Low and Doherty in the forward. Walter M. Lamont, agent of the Wood Worsted Mill, was honored with the kickoff and was given a great hand. The ball was brought back and Kershaw started and the Abbots took up the attack at once. Kelley sent Quinn away on the wing and his center was smartly cleared by Caldwell. Corrigan lobbed the ball back into the penalty area and Kershaw shot wide.

The Abbots pressed strongly and Kershaw headed in for Deymond to make a good save. The game was fast and the players had some difficulty in trying to control the ball which was slipping. The Shawsheen goal had a narrow escape when Kane's shot just missed the mark by inches at the foot of the upright. Haddon was playing a strong game and appeared to be in every move. It was from him that the Shawsheen pressed for a time, when Coleman made an unsuccessful attempt from long range. Low got in a dashing run down the center but was bowled over by Ross in the penalty and a cry went up for a penalty but the referee waved play on.

The game now became a little rough in the penalty area and the referee had to penalize both sides at this period, Haddon being caught in the act of jumping. Kelley was in at the rescue when Skea placed in a dropping shot from the side line, the center half heading out in mastery fashion. The Abbots' intermediates were very much in the picture, holding the Shawsheen line in check and ever serving to the men in front.

Kelley put Neil in possession and this tricky player gave Kane a nice chance, only to see Jackson make a splendid clearance. Deymond went down to a fast shot from Corrigan and just managed to stop the ball on the line; he could not clear and wisely threw the ball behind, the resulting corner kick resulting in Dundas shooting past Haddon, who was playing a remarkable breaking-up game, put the ball out to Gordon, who made good ground before putting the ball across, only to see Low miss when well placed. Shortly after this Nicholl was hurt in a scrimmage and had to leave the field. Jackson and Caldwell defended well under fire and Deymond saved well from Kershaw. A half hour later the game was with Abbots leading, 1 to 0.

The feature of the first half had been the lack of support of the home forwards by the halfbacks.

Shawsheen opened strongly in the second half without being really dangerous, owing to the habit of getting offside. Davidson stopped the ball on the goal line and although he did not hold it the first time he recovered possession and cleared.

The Abbot forwards received great attention from their halfbacks, Duncan being exceedingly clever in that great understanding with Quinn and Neil. From one of these manoeuvres on the left, the ball was well centered that went to the foot of Kane, who in the twinkling of an eye made an opening to finish by smashing the ball in the net, thus giving Abbot Worsted the lead once again.

Haddon now worked hard to stem the tide, but it was evident that he was up against the almost inevitable, while Jackson and Caldwell stood well under great fire, with the Abbots storming the Shawsheen goal. Deymond was cheered for some brilliant saving. Dundas got away nicely on the right and succeeded in forcing a corner from which Kershaw headed over the bar. Deymond snapped up a cross fire from Dundas and cleared his lines.

Time was drawing near and it could be seen that the Abbots were complete masters of the situation as they passed the ball out to another in the cleverest fashion. Bringing into effect the triangular play, it worked well on the left as Quinn and Neil got away, with no opening in view. A pass back from Quinn to Duncan saved the purpose and counted, as Duncan fired in a great shot that found the top corner of the net. Time was called shortly after with the score 3 goals to 1. The Story of Our States

By JONATHAN BRACE
XLVI.—NEW MEXICO

AS ITS name implies, New Mexico's history is closely allied with Old Mexico. It was the Spanish who were its first explorers, De Vaca visiting this region in 1536, and Coronado four years later. The natives were the Pueblo Indians, although they are sometimes erroneously reported to have been Aztecs as they were well advanced in the arts and had a comparatively high civilization. These Indians were conquered in 1598 by Juan de Onate and became subject to Spanish rule, being forced to work the mines and pay tribute. Missions were established and Santa Fe was founded about 1605.

Except for a period of ten years when the Indians revolted and maintained their independence, New Mexico remained under Spanish control until in 1821 Mexico gained its independence from Spain and New Mexico became a province of Mexico. Thus it remained until the outbreak of the Mexican war, when in 1846 Colonel Kearny marched from Fort Leavenworth with his troops, occupied Santa Fe and declared this region a part of the United States. By the Treaty with Mexico in 1848, the upper part of the state was formally ceded to the United States and the Territory of Mexico was organized in 1851, which reached from Texas to California.

Arizona was set off from New Mexico in 1863 and a few years later a portion was contributed to Colorado. Application for admission as a state started in 1880, but it was not until 1910 that New Mexico became the forty-seventh state.

New Mexico ranks fourth in size among the states with an area of 122,684 square miles, but is sparsely populated and accordingly has only three electoral votes for President.

FIRST A. A. FIELD DAY

Francis X. Holland Leads Field of Winners in Closed Event and Al Arthridge of St. Alphonsus Cleans Up in Opens.

The fact that "old Sol" refused to shine on last Saturday did not dampen the spirits of the Shawsheen Athletic Association for their Field Day was a huge success in spite of him. Every event scheduled was carried out including the track meet, soccer game and baseball game.

The details were perfectly arranged and there was not a single hitch during the afternoon. The crowd was well cared for and a temporary stand was erected along the 120-yard straightaway which gave everyone a fine chance to enjoy the sports.

The athletic meet brought up from Greater Boston some excellent talent and they cleaned up in the open events with the exception of the marathon run in which Arthur Dewhurst, a Methuen boy, jogged onto the track amid the plaudits of the crowd. He had lapped the track before the second man in the race appeared and was running strong. He has a clear easy-going stride, not unlike that of Tom Longboat and is a very clean little runner. Walter Sawyer, also of Methuen representing the Lawrence Y. M. C. A. was third runner to enter the track and start on the four-lap finish. He was just nine minutes later than Dewhurst. The distance was negotiated in the fast time of 32 minutes flat, at Arthridge was the topiner and led a fast field in the 100, 220 and 440. He was easily the best of the runners from Boston.

Gail Robinson, the Huntington school star high jumper was in a class by himself and close battle in the 100 and 220, but he later refused to yield and finished with a yard to spare in each. Carey was beaten out for second place in the 440 by Ed. White. Holland trailed the field for half the distance but forged ahead and won over White by three yards.

The shotput was won by Arthur George, who was the first in the 50-yd dash for department heads. He tossed the shot 31 feet 5 inches. Frank H. Paige was second with a heave of 27 feet and W. Milburn, third with 25 feet 11 inches.

Henry Harrison was second in the department heads special race and F. Townsend third. This was one of the big events of the afternoon and there had been numerous predictions on the winner. Arthur George, who claims a speaking acquaintance with the English champion outclassed the field, and romped home in 6-5 seconds.

There were races for the boys and girls of Shawsheen Village. The winners in the boys race were Oscar Lotter, first; Charles Murray, second; Malcolm Burns, third. Mary Williams was in a class by herself in the girls' race and outdistanced her competitors. Abigail Curran was second and third prize went to Katherine Reilly. There was a big field in both of these events.

Shawsheen Mills won the tug of war from the Arden team but only after a very strenuous battle. There was plenty of excitement especially on the last pull after the teams were tied. Shawsheen, however, held their opponents for a half minute, the time agreed upon, and won. W. Harrison was captain of the winning team and the other members were: Al Greunig, C. Ross, Tom Marsh, Ralph Hill, Robert Goodall and John Elder. The other team was Harold Cates, captain; Gus Frederickson, H. Whitney, Obert Currier, E. Hardton, Joseph Soderburg.

The mill championship was won by the Manton Mills baseball team. They were opposed by the No. 1 Washington Mill team. The score of the game was 15 to 2.

The teams:

Manton Mills—B. McSherry, l.f., A. Greenhalgh, r.f., D. Hughes, j.b., J. Gilmore, l.b., J. Gilmore, W. Broadbent, c.f., C. Hughes, 2b., H. Derouier, l.f., F. Smith, A. Casey, J. Tremble, J. McElroy, p.

Cutting The Nation's Food Bill
Trace back to its source the foodstuff that comes to your table and in almost every case, either gas or electricity has produced power to prepare and bring it to you.

Power plows the fields where our great wheat crops are grown.

Power grinds and mixes the materials that fertilize the land.

Power cultivates, harvests, threshes—stores grain in giant elevators and carries it to distant markets.

Power turns wheat into flour, corn into meal, hogs and cattle into pork and beef—transforming, refining, transporting.

On the farm, the ranch, and plantation, electric power has followed electric light so that gardens are irrigated, land drained, wheat threshed, fruit sorted and cleaned by electricity.

Study the simplest of breakfasts. Perhaps no better example illustrates the application of power than the slice of buttered toast.

Electricity began by grinding the wheat and wheat substitutes. Gas or electricity finished by toasting.

Both the milk that moistened the dough and the butter you spread on the toast have probably met electricity on their way to you for today cows are milked electrically and electric motors run the separator on the farm and the churn in the dairy. Even en route to market these perishable products are kept fresh by ice made in electrically-driven plants.

In the bakery, the loaf was probably kneaded, shaped, carried to the ovens and wrapped, all by power; then delivered in an electric truck, or one that depended on the electricity for lighting and ignition.

As with this little piece of toast, so with many other articles of food that enter into your daily menu.
